

Beloved Jesus the Christ

Be of Good Cheer

Beloved ones, I AM come this morn. Hence, be of good cheer. It is the I AM Presence within your heart that sustains all life, there and elsewhere.

With the advent of my coming long ago to this planet, it came to pass that nature itself rejoiced. But lest you should think that this is not so for the great universal Christ, let me speak of that Christ that is within your heart. For this Christ that is within the hearts of all mankind is one and the same as the Christ in me.

Rejoice, then, and be free and at peace, resting your consciousness in the never-failing light of that Holy One that is within thee. And always being of good cheer, knowing that there is no favoritism in the kingdom of God but only the election whereby mankind decide within their hearts that they will make their own calling and election sure, seeking then to find that union with our Father (which is the prerogative and blessing of all) and knowing that with the coming of the greater light all shadows must dissipate...

Beloved Jesus the Christ

Be of Good Cheer

Beloved ones, I AM come this morn. Hence, be of good cheer. It is the I AM Presence within your heart that sustains all life, there and elsewhere.

With the advent of my coming long ago to this planet, it came to pass that nature itself rejoiced. But lest you should think that this is not so for the great universal Christ, let me speak of that Christ that is within your heart. For this Christ that is within the hearts of all mankind is one and the same as the Christ in me.

Rejoice, then, and be free and at peace, resting your consciousness in the never-failing light of that Holy One that is within thee. And always being of good cheer, knowing that there is no favoritism in the kingdom of God but only the election whereby mankind decide within their hearts that they will make their own calling and election sure,¹ seeking then to find that union with our Father (which is the prerogative and blessing of all) and knowing that with the coming of the greater light all shadows must dissipate from the world of men.

I AM come this morn to dissipate those shadows within your world, inasmuch as this is the will of God. Open up, then, your blessed consciousness, that you may drink in the radiance of your Holy Christ Self—the radiance of its purity descending from the heart of God, from your own mighty I AM Presence. This is the fullness of the light that never fails.

This light is able to sustain your goings and your comings. This light is the light that never shone upon land or sea but always blazed out from within the center of man's being, radiating forth the peace and the perfection of the eternal moment of Creation.

The Feeling of Attunement with God

Long ago, as I spoke to the children of Israel upon the hillsides of Judea, the feeling of attunement with God went forth, and it is ever so. That which mankind possess within themselves goeth forth from them and rejoins itself unto eternal Reality.

It was, then, the Christ light within the children of Israel that pulsed in a perfect rhythm with the light that is within me, which stirred their hearts to a new generation, the regeneration of immortality. This hope, then, finding anchorage within themselves, was recognized by their consciousness as being posited there within them, the eternal Presence so close and yet seeming so far from them before. It was this that I performed for them, and it is this that I would perform for thee.

This morning, when I came first and stood in your midst, I spake unto you and said, "Be of good cheer, for it is the I AM within you." Again I remind you of this. For unless you yourselves are made aware of this blessing resident within your hearts, our labor is in vain on behalf of the kingdom for you. For the great cosmic law requires that each blessed individual shall themselves petition the courts of heaven to find admittance. No one is denied whose heart is willing to receive our presence, and yet all must bow before the great supreme authority of their own mighty lifestream, their own God Presence.

There is no feeling in the universe of desiring to abase mankind, even beneath the Godhead, as a mark of a Divine Ego. In the heart of the Father there is a complete freedom from any feelings whatsoever of egoism. God is the Great Sharer, who breaks the bread and substance of his life with all in order that all may share through the Eucharist of his holy Presence every blessing that he himself is made aware of. And it is in this eternal sharing that I AM come this day to make each of ye more aware of this privilege of knowing the love of the Father so that ye, in emulation of him, may seek to find those qualities that are inherent within him, within you.

The Vital, Regenerate Life of the Holy Spirit

I breathe upon you now the perfection of our Father.

[10-second pause]

Receive ye that perfection and know that this is the quality of immortality, the quality that is free from fear, free from doubt, free from senseless dissipation of its holy energy.

All is held in perfect balance in the Godhead. All is held in the readiness of supreme faith. God knows that when he speaks the Word, it must go forth and cannot return to him void² but must accomplish the purpose for which he sent it forth!

Lo, therefore, I AM come that ye might have life and that more abundantly!³ And this life is within you—the vital, regenerate life of the Holy Spirit! As I breathe upon the coals of the sacred fire resident within your own heart flame, it is inevitable that they should expand, for I have fanned them with a breath of the Almighty. The heat that is generated by this expansion is held as a treasure within your aura, within your consciousness, within the prerogative of your moments to come. These are holy gifts. Ye are stewards of these gifts, as ye were in the Beginning, before the world was in form. Ye are stewards of these gifts and graces.

Be of good cheer, then, and recognize the power of the spiritual light of God that cannot fail to take your lives and to transmute those lives until you walk the earth as I did, today and every day.

The past is past. Let the dead bury their dead.⁴ Seek ye now first the kingdom and its righteousness, and all things shall be added unto you.⁵ Ye cannot change one cosmic condition. This is a rock of spiritual perfection, and all who fall upon this rock and are broken shall find a healing of their bones in that most perfect example of the infinite perfection of the Christ in man. For though Adam be broken, Christ shall rise in all.

I Pour Out My Tangible Peace as the Peace of the Eternal Presence

I AM come this morn to speak comfort to your hearts, a comfort that is undisturbed by the tumult of the world, a comfort that is undisturbed by human outer conditions. For I know the power resident within the All-Father and I AM an extension of that Presence to you this morn.

You also, if ye would know it, are extensions of the All-Father! You also are the authority in your world! You need not evince examples of imperfection! You may manifest perfection if ye will. For I AM within you and ye are thus within the heart of the Father. All are one in supreme purpose. The charge of divine love brings all into the sheepfold who will hear my voice, and in hearing will recognize the voice of their Holy Christ Self, the immaculate consort of God.

He who walks and talks with God, as Adam did in his archetypal perfection before the Fall, signifies to mankind that the heeding of the voices of discord, in mimicry of outer world conditions, is the acceptance of imperfection by mankind. For in the very idea and concept of imperfection, mankind have manifested it. And thus in the idea of perfection they will manifest it, for out of the idea of perfection will come forth victory to all who will heed my Word.

My Word becomes flesh within ye,⁶ and you are raised into that consciousness of victory that overcometh the world. The world, in all of its sense of delusion, cannot bring you my peace. And yet I give it unto you, not as the world giveth peace (which is but a surcease from distress), but I pour out my tangible peace as the peace of the eternal Presence, the light of God, the radiance of the resurrection, the radiance of the transfiguration preceding, and the ultimate radiance of your ascension.

No man can equal this, nor can flesh in any way mimic it. For it is a gift of God to all who will accept the holy gift and stewardship of the Presence of Life within themselves, seeking thus to outpicture in form that which is within, in the flaming God plan of their own life.

You may ask in your heart why I say this is “flaming.” I call to your attention the ancient scriptures that have been recorded, saying, “God is a consuming fire.”⁷ Wist ye not that in being about the Father’s business, I am about a being of fire? This is the fire that came down from heaven.⁸ It is the fire that is the center-part of every life. It is the fire that beats the heart, which is the center of all universes. Your own sun of this system of worlds and of all systems of worlds has a part of this mighty fire.

The Mighty Perfume of the Eternal Presence

As in the story told of Prometheus bound and unbound,⁹ so man, by their harnessing of the sacred fire element, will find their freedom. For I tell you, that shadowed substance cannot endure the pressures of the sacred fire. And yet it is not the will of God that any should suffer loss. Hence, if the application of the full fire of light from the heart of God were to blaze forth today into the world of form and upon the character of mankind, it would utterly cause them to cease to exist.

This is not the will of God, and therefore a more gentle application of the mighty power blazes forth and mankind are taken one by one by the hand and taught by God, even your Father and mine, until this planet finds the mighty perfume of the eternal Presence released from the mighty bud of identity—the Buddha, the Christ, the light, eternal akasha, God-design, wondrous All-Father, the mighty Father of Elohim, of archangels, of perfection, of the archetypes, of all and for all.

Lo, I AM with you always, even unto the end of the age.¹⁰

I thank you and bid you a pleasant good afternoon.

"The Summit Lighthouse Sheds Its Radiance o'er All the World to Manifest as Pearls of Wisdom." This previously unpublished dictation by Jesus the Christ was delivered by the Messenger of the Great White Brotherhood Mark L. Prophet on Sunday, October 27, 1963, during the Sunday service at the Dodge House, Washington, D.C. (1) II Peter 1:10. (2) Isa. 55:11. (3) John 10:10. (4) Matt. 8:22; Luke 9:60. (5) Matt. 6:33; Luke 12:31. (6) See John 1:14. (7) Deut. 4:24; Heb. 12:29. (8) Job 1:16; Rev. 20:9. (9) Prometheus bound and unbound. In Greek legend and in the Greek Mysteries, Prometheus (Greek: "Forethought"), the son of a Titan, gave fire to mankind, as well as wisdom, science, and medicine. Prometheus was known as the savior and benefactor of man, and in some accounts the co-creator of mankind. The bestowal of these gifts angered Zeus, the king of the gods, who did not want mankind to resemble the gods. Zeus chained Prometheus to a peak in the Caucasus mountains, where an eagle pecked out his liver that then grew back, only to be pecked out again. It is said that the liver symbolizes Prometheus's passion for the survival of humanity, which Zeus sought to destroy. After many years, Prometheus was finally unbound by Hercules and released from his ordeal. The Greek playwright Aeschylus wrote Prometheus Bound in the fifth century B.C., composed of dialogues between Prometheus, the chorus, and other characters while he was bound to the rock. In this drama, Prometheus expounds on the benefits he bestowed on mankind and predicts his rescue and the eventual fall of Zeus. Aeschylus also wrote two more plays continuing the story of Prometheus: Prometheus Unbound and Prometheus the Fire-Bringer, which exist only in fragments of writings by later authors. Elizabeth Clare Prophet has commented: "Prometheus, who dared to give the knowledge of fire to man, incurred the wrath of the gods, their jealousy and envy that now mankind was equipped with this element that would give them increased independence and therefore equality with the gods. The knowledge and the gift of the sacred fire, although given to man in the beginning by the Father as the flame within the heart, was given to the outer world only in [the twentieth] century . . . through his beloved messengers [Godfre and Lotus]. And the use of the sacred fire, of the violet fire, indeed makes of men gods, ascended masters." In the Theosophical Glossary, H. P. Blavatsky writes that Prometheus is the "Greek logos; he, who by bringing on earth divine fire (intelligence and consciousness) endowed men with reason and mind. Prometheus is the Hellenic type of our Kumaras or Egos [Higher Selves], those who, by incarnating in men, made of them latent gods." (10) Matt. 28:20.

The Call Compels the Answer

Truly the call is the salvation of the soul—the call that is heard even before we pray in His name:

O Great Shepherd of souls, Lord Jesus, thou Christ of God and Son of the Most High, we call unto thee and the great hosts of heaven to assist us as we call in thy name to all souls upon earth to hear the voice of Love, Wisdom, and Power that invokes for them communion and blessings without limit, that gives to all a new sense of freedom and hope and that awareness of thee which is oneness in purpose, plan, and infinitude.

O consecrated essence of the sacred fire, descend, we pray, upon all lands, and seas, and sky; bless elemental life and all that we pass by with the healing power of the hem of thy trailing garment of ever-new delight in the law of thy being—the law of Love, eternally sustaining the brightness of thy concepts over the earth and the souls of all men. Make them one, even as we are one.

Man need not speculate as to whether God exists; he need only invoke from the Godhead the proof that the LORD has challenged him to invoke, the proof of his very existence:

Show me, O LORD, thy infinite Mercy and Truth; show me thyself in formless Spirit and in Mater-form, in the elements and in man of whom thou art mindful; show me thy Power and thy Love in an immortelle and in the onrushing river of Light that descends from above. Show me, and I will cover the earth with the brightness of thy witness, the corona of thy glory.*
